Solvax is a powerful solution combining essential oils and organic acids to address respiratory issues in poultry. Its expectorant and dissolving properties help clear the airways, while the soothing effect on the respiratory tract reduces secondary infections and eases vaccination reactions. The blend's organic acids improve the microbial quality of drinking water and support healthy intestinal flora, enhancing overall health. By tackling these issues, Solvax boosts zootechnical performance, ensuring healthier and more productive poultry. With Solvax, you get a comprehensive approach to improving respiratory health and overall well-being in your flock.
